CONGRESSIONAL POLITICIANS

Seem to Be Busy Just Now Trying to Find a Man to Run Against Harvey Helm.

Sunday's papers had some interesting political gossip regarding efforts which are being made to get out opposition to Congressiman Harvey Helm, of this city. A dispatch from Danville to the Courier Journal said: The removal of Attorney General James Garnett to Louisville upon his retirement eliminates him as a prospective candidate for Congress in the Eighth district. He had been considering the solicitations of his friends, but decided to retire from politics and devote his energies to law in the Falls City. Democrats in the Eighth are making strong appeals to William Jennings Price to become a candidate. He is the present United States Minister to Panama, and an effort is on foot to induce him to resign the post and return home to enter the fight for the omination next August.

Tom Cromwell, the Cincinnati Enquirer's Kentucky political writer, had the following of interest here:

In the Eighth Congressional District it is rumored than an effort is being made by certain influential Democrats who are not favorable to the re-election of Representative Harvey Helm, Stanford, to clear the decks so that Hon. George L. Pickett, Shelbyville, who is to represent the Fifty-fifth Legislative District at the coming session of the General Assembly, may make the race for the Democratic nomination single-handed against the Lincoln county man, who has the reputation of being the not be a candidate.
